

observations, instructions

The screens of www.teaching-design.com offer a forum for publishing texts about graphics and its role in society. Responsibility for the opinions published lies with the author or person submitting them and the documents concerned are deemed free of any rights.

Texts should be emailed to us in the form of a “Word” or “text only” document. The page design will be done in XPress and, therefore, the documents must not contain any text enrichment or “layout”. If you are sending several documents, please identify them very clearly and send them to us in the form of a compressed archive file.

These documents and any technical questions you may wish to ask should be emailed to olivier.cabon@thotm.com. Any other emails should be sent to thierry@sarfis.com.

Best of luck and we look forward to hearing from you.
